Guidelines for optimal usage of spectrum

whether Government is going to frame guidelines for optimal usage of spectrum;

if so, the details thereof; and the measures taken by Government for increasing rural tele-density through this effort?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY (SHRI JYOTIRADITYA MADHAVRAO SCINDIA):

(a) and (b) In order to ensure optimum use and equitable allotment of scarce spectrum resource, the criteria for spectrum allotment are based on the active subscribers, peak traffic of the operator's network and demographic features of the service area. These criteria are reviewed from time to time taking into account relevant factors and technological developments. The latest orders in this regard are based on TRAI recommendations and have been issued in January, 2008.

(c) The spectrum is allotted for the complete service area and thus, does not constrain the operators from rolling out the service in any part of the service area, including rural areas. To increase connectivity in rural and remote areas, a scheme has been implemented under the 'Universal Service Obligation Fund' to provide subsidy for shared passive infrastructure (towers, etc.) in certain specified rural and remote areas.
