Revision in the rates of Royalty on Minerals

4396. DR. MAHESH CHANDRA SHARMA: Will the Minister of STEEL AND MINES be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that although royalty on minerals are revisable after every three years, Central Government make revision after five or six years;

(b) whether it is also a fact that delay in the revision of royalty results in considerable loss of revenue to the State Government; and

(c) whether Central Government are considering delegation of Powers to the State Governments to revise the rates of royalty and if not, the reasons therefor?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF STEEL AND MINES (SHRI RAMESH BAIS): (a) to (c) As per provisions of Section 9(3) of Mines and Minerals (Regulation and Development) Act, 1957, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, amend the Second Schedule so as to enhance or reduce the rate at which royalty shall be payable in respect of any mineral with effect from such date as may be specified in the notification provided that the Central Government shall not enhance the rate of royalty in respect of any mineral more than once during any period of three years. The delay in revision and implementation of rates of royalty on major minerals occurs due to procedural as well as administrative reasons. However, revision of rates may not necessarily also mean enhancement of rates and loss of revenues may occur only when there is delay in enhancement of royalty rates,

The Central Government constituted a Committee under the Chairmanship of Secretary, Ministry of Mines, Government of India with Mining Secretaries of major mineral producing states. Controller General, Indian Bureau of Mines and Secretary General, Federation of Indian Mineral Industries etc. as members which considered apart from other aspects the suggestions for simplification of the procedure for effecting changes in revision of royalty rates of major minerals and ensuring
