Openness in Official Secrets Act, 1923

3036. SHRI GOVINDRAM MIRI:
SHRI OP. KOHLI:

Will the Minister of HOME AFFAIRS be pleased to state:

(a) whether openness is "discretionary" under the regime of the Official Secrets Act,

1923 in India and it is lagging behind several countries in the field of right to information;

(b) if so, the reasons therefor and steps proposed to be taken to bring transparency in its affairs; and

(c) whether in the opinion of the Government the experience of other countries and the legislations enacted by them could serve as a model for India?

THE MINISTER OF HOME AFFAIRS (SHRI INDRAJIT GUPTA): (a) to (c) The Official Secrets Act, 1923 was enacted for protection of official secrets in our country. The Act is intended to take care of spying and espionage activities and disclosure of other secret information considered prejudicial to the interest of the State and safety and sovereignty of the country. However, in order to achieve openness and transparency in Government functioning, instructions have been issued to all the Central Ministries/Departments for taking effective steps towards this objective which includes, inter-alia, further details being furnished in replies to Parliament Questions, revamping of public relations cells in Ministries/Departments which deal with public enquiries/complaints, provisions of more information in annual reports, in institution of effective mechanism for replying to communications received from the public etc. No statute relating to Right to information, as prevalent in some other countries, has yet been enacted in this country. As the matter is both complex and sensitive, the issues involved require careful and thorough analysis which is being done.
