

dupe the nation and keep them at the starvation level, at the below poverty level, etc. Therefore, I am justified in describing this Budget as an epitome of the stagnation of the economy, of the dehydrated state of the economy, dehydrated state of the values of the society and that is only cosmetic. In the light of these, kindly look into it. Thank you.

THE BUDGET (GENERAL), 1989-90 — Contd.

SHRI SHANKARRAO NARAYAN-RAO DESHMUKH: Mr. Vice-Chairman. Sir, I would like to support the present Budget presented by our hon. Finance Minister. The Budget is a rough picture for the next year that is to come regarding the financial situation, allocation of funds for social, political and administrative purposes. We have to look at this Budget from this angle that the Government takes the responsibility to see that the country is run according to certain fixed principles and the advancement of the people is taken by the Government step by step. We always assume that is like a Bori-bunder station where trains are expected to run according to the scheduled time. But we have lot of experience that even on Bori-bunder station where trains are expected to run according to the scheduled time, sometimes, they do not run according to the scheduled time. Even in the present day, competent machines, though they are expected to give the exact situation, the exact working, sometimes fail. Then, what about human machines? So many times the mistakes are committed, the judgments are wrong and therefore, it should not be taken as if the Government is neglecting these factors. Therefore, while presenting the Budget, the hon. Finance Minister has taken two important points into consideration. The first point was the last year of the Seventh Five Year Plan for which resources or the money are required and the second
