

Government have also set up a high level Steering Committee at the national level which will, among other things, consider the evaluation reports from the States Evaluation Groups /NCERT and review the progress of the programme.

At the college level, University Grants Commission in February, 1982 and circulated guidelines to all universities requesting them to review textbooks to see that such books do not contain any materials that will generate disharmony among different communities.

The main object of the review is to eliminate the passages and approaches prejudicial to the national integration and also to ensure incorporation of information which will promote national unity.

At school stage the textbooks are prescribed by State Governments through their Boards of Education and at the central level by the Central Board of Secondary Education. NCERT has developed all the textbooks for the schools according to the nationality developed approach—"Ten year Curriculum" and the States are free either to adopt or adapt these books.
