

(b) whether GIS mapping project is being used to track defaulters of property tax?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF URBAN DEVELOPMENT (SHRI AJAY MAKEN): (a) No, Sir. However, guidelines have been issued by this Ministry in 1998 for property tax reforms to all State Governments and Union Territory Administrations with the objective of simplification and rationalization of property tax.

(b) No, Sir. The National Urban Information System (NUIS) Scheme launched in March, 2006 seeks to establish a comprehensive information system for planning, development and management of Urban Local Bodies (ULBs). The digital maps and GIS database to be developed under the NUIS would help ULBs in preparation of (i) Master Plans (ii) Zonal Plans, (iii) Utility Plans and (iv) detailed town planning scheme. This scheme, however, does not envisage any provision for tracking defaulters of property tax.
