

viz., Singrauli, Korba, Pamagundam and Farakka. The Government of India and NTPC had agreed with the World Bank that the bulk supply agreements would be signed six months prior to commercial operation of the first unit at each of these projects. For Singrauli Super Thermal Power Station the agreements were to be signed by September, 1981 and for Korba by July, 1982.

The World Bank have stipulated that finalisation and signing of bulk supply contracts between NTPC and the beneficiary States for sale of power from Singrauli and Korba projects would be pre-condition to holding negotiations for the Fifth Transmission Project.

NTPC has not yet finalised the 'bulk supply contract with the State Electricity Board. Efforts are being made to finalise the same at the earliest.
