Devaluation of the Rupee

SHRI N. K. P. SALVE:

Will the Minister of FINANCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that Rupee has recently been devalued against Pound Sterling;

(b) if so, what is the present exchange rate for a pound and the extent of fall in the exchange rate since January, 1980; and

(c) whether there is any proposal for general devaluation of the rupee?

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE (SHRI R. VENKATARAMAN.): (a) and (b) Presumably the Hon'ble members are referring to down-ward adjustments in the value of the rupee against Pound Sterling effected from time to time. In this connection it may be stated that the terms devaluation and revaluation have lost their earlier unambiguous meaning in the present system of "floating" exchange rates obtaining for major currencies of the world.

The exchange rate policy currently in force was adopted with effect from 25th September, 1975. Under this policy, the value of the rupee is fixed not in terms of any one currency but in terms of a basket of currencies. The exchange rate of the rupee in terms of pound-sterling (which is the "intervention currency") is calculated from this fixed basket using the exchange rates between the various component currencies as determined in International currency markets. As these exchange rates change, the exchange rate of the rupee in terms of pound sterling changes and accordingly periodic adjustments are announced in the rupee sterling rate.

The latest middle rate as announced by the Reserve Bank of India on 11th November, 1980 was Rs. 18.65 per pound sterling. The changes and extent of appreciation or depreciation of rupee against pound sterling since January, 1980 are given in the statement.

(c) Does not arise.
