

tions in the country during the years 1972 to 1976 is given below:—

Year	Diphtheria
	cases	Deaths
1972 . . .	16,707	522
1973 . . .	13,948	533
1974 . . .	26,912	523
1975 . . .	21,448	432
1976 . . .	10,928	472

Children in the age group of 1—8 years are susceptible to diphtheria. Occasionally cases may occur in higher age groups and even among adults. The maximum incidence is seen in the age group 2—5 years. The disease may occur in seasonal outbreaks.

(b) The Government have sponsored a programme to immunize children against diphtheria whooping cough and tetanus through the Department of Family Welfare. Children below 5 years of age are immunized with triple vaccine which contains the antigens against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. Older children are given only the bivalent vaccine against diphtheria and tetanus as whooping cough is not a problem among this age group. During the current year 18 million children were to receive the benefit of this immunization. It is proposed that larger number of children will be covered under the immunization in the coming years.

Besides a number of institutes in the private sector, there are two vaccine institutes in the public sector producing the vaccine. The Central Research institute Kasauli under the Government of India and the Haffkine Bio-Pharmaceutical Corporation of the State of Maharashtra. Government of India are considering the setting up of an other institute to produce the vaccine.
