*291. SHRIMATI SAROJ KHAPARDE; Will the Minister of TOURISM AND CIVIL AVIATION be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that an air route surveillance radar, a vital navigational aid for aircrafts, has remained idle since its installation in March, 1974 at Nangloi near Delhi;

(b) if so, what are the reasons therefor; and

(c) what steps Government propose to take to utilise the equipment effectively?

THE MINISTER OF TOURISM AND CIVIL AVIATION (SHRI PURUSHOTTAM KAUSHIK): (a) to (c) A statement is laid on the Table of the Sabha.

Statement

(a) to (c) No, Sir. After installation and test of the Air Route Surveillance Radar at Nangloi (Delhi), it was declared operational on 21-3-74. At the beginning, the facility was given procedural monitoring till the middle of June, 1974 when it was put into regular 24 hours operation. During this time, maintenance personnel as well as Air Traffic Control Officers were trained on the operation of this sophisticated equipment. After initial operation, the air-conditioning unit went out of order, off and on, and the Air Route Surveillance Radar facility had to be withdrawn by the end of August, 1974 to avoid damage to the equipment.

The question of rectifying the defect in the air-conditioning equipment was taken up with the concerned firm through Director General of Supplies and Disposals, who directed the firm to provide a matching condenser for improving the functioning of the air-conditioning equipment. However, the firm after a protracted correspondence supplied the matching condenser and the air-conditioning unit has been made serviceable from October, 1977. To improve the functioning of the Air-conditioner, an additional condenser will be provided and the Air Route Surveillance Radar will be made operational by December, 1977.

SHRI HIMMAT SINH:

DR. V. B. SINGH:

Will the Minister of COMMERCE AND CIVIL SUPPLIES AND COOPERATION be pleased to state:

(a) whether a conference of India's trade representatives in East Europe was held at Prague in the last week of October this year.

(b) if so, what are the problems discussed and what conclusions were arrived at; and

(c) whether the export of non-traditional goods to the East European Countries is likely to increase as a result of the decisions taken at the Conference?;

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF COMMERCE AND CIVIL SUPPLIES AND COOPERATION (SHRI KRISHNA KUMAR GOYAL): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) The meeting reviewed the present pattern of trade with the East European countries and considered means to balance the two-way trade, the role and functions of the export promotion offices located in East Europe, and promotional measures necessary to promote our exports to East Europe.

(c) There is good scope for export of non-traditional goods to East European countries, but the main problem in our trade with these countries is balancing the trade which is generally in our favour. Our import requirements from these countries have come down and therefore export prospects are also limited. The conference has considered this aspect and has suggested several measures to expand the exports of non-traditional items.

Impact of F.E.R.A. on foreign investments in India

*294. SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE: Will the Minister of FINANCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether any study has been made by Government regarding the impact of the Foreign Exchange Regulation Act on foreign investments in India; and

(b) if so, what are the main features thereof?

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE (SHRI H. M. PATEL): (a) and (b) No study has been made of the impact of F.E.R.A. on foreign investments in India. The F.E.R.A. regulations relating to dilution of foreign equity apply only to foreign companies in business as on 1-1-1974. But so far as new foreign investment is concerned, it is regulated by the investment/industrial policy and is permitted on a selective basis in high technology areas or in export oriented ventures. Government's assessment is that the provisions of F.E.R.A. have not tended to inhibit fresh foreign investment in India.
