Kalinadi bridge on National Highway No. 17 in Karnataka : Out of nine foundations in all eight have been taken up. (b) The original time schedule and the original estimated cost for the completion of these bridges are given below :

Name	Original target date of completion	Original sanctioned cost under N.H. Programme
		(Rs. lakhs)
Zuari Bridge	11.4.1976	251.07
Kalinadi Bridge	5.11.1975	175.29

(c) The main reason for not completing these works as per schedule was the difficult foundation conditions met with while sinking the wells and to some extent the poor efforts put in by the contractors.

The final cost of the Kalinadi bridge is not expected to go up merely because of this delay in its completion as the lump sum tender for this work does not provide for any varying escalation; it already includes a certain fixed amount for escalation and this will not be affected by the delay in completion of the work. The final cost may, however, go up on account of certain other reasons such as pneumatic sinking, increase in depth of well foundations, etc. to suit actual site conditions. But the exact financial implications of these can be assessed only after the foundation work is complete.

In the Zuari bridge contract, however, there is an escalation clause linking escalation with the consumer price index wholesale price index, diesel price etc. But it is difficult to say whether the final cost of the work is expected to go up on account of the delay in completion of the work as the aforesaid price indices have in the recent past been showing a downward trend. In any case, since they keep on fluctuating, the exact financial implications, if any, on account of this delay can be assessed only after the work is completed.]
