Will the Minister of STEEL AND MINES be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that Geological Survey of India has not properly surveyed Indo-Burma border of Nagaland and Manipur areas; and

(b) if so, what steps Government have taken to explore minerals in this area?

THE DEPUTY MINISTER IN THE MINISTRY OF STEEL AND MINES (SHRI SUKHDEV PRASAD): (a) and (b). Geological Survey of India has, despite difficult field conditions, surveyed large portions of Nagaland and Manipur in the course of its programme of systematic geological mapping and the work will receive a greater impetus with the establishment recently of the North Eastern Regional Officer of the Geological Survey of India. Priority in these surveys has been given to mineral rich areas and, as a result, Coal and Nickel deposits have been located in Nagaland and that of limestone and clay in Manipur.

In the current field season (October, 1974 to September, 1975) of Geological Survey of India, systematic geological mapping in some prospective mineral bearing areas of both the State, and regional mineral investigations for coal and magnetite-nickel in Nagaland and for chromite, nickel, copper platinum, asbestos, soapstone, lignite and rock-salt in Manipur have been proposed to be carried out. The minimum rates of wages in respect of different categories of employees in Ports of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras were fixed and in some cases revised during the period 1951-61. As a Wage Board was subsequently appointed on 13th November, 1964 to work out a wage structure based on the principles of fair wages and its recommendation was effective for 5 years from 1-1-1969, revision of minimum wages under the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, was not considered necessary.
