given better production results in countries with dense population and low technology; and

(b) if so, whether Government propose to introduce the scheme in the country ?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE (SHRI ANNASAHAB P. SHINDE): (a) and (b) A statement is placed on the Table of the Sabha.

Statement

(a) and (b) Available information indicates that in some countries such as Japan, high yield have been achieved on small holdings, but agriculture in these countries has been both labour intensive and capital intensive using advanced technology. In India, the State have enacted legislation for lowering the level of ceilings on holdings. Also, the strategy enunciated for agricultural development in the Fifth Plan places greater reliance on intensive agriculture for securing higher productivity and production. Various programmes such as extension of irrigation facilities, command area development, extension of area under high-yielding varieties, coordinated arrangements for supply of inputs, larger supply of institutional credit, etc., are being implemented for this purpose. Special stress is also being placed on assisting small and marginal farmers with inputs, irrigation facilities, credit and technical know-how so as to enable them to improve their levels of production.
