

(c) The terms of the scheme for import of 50 vessels, introduced this year, have been carefully drafted with a view to subsidising not only imported but also indigenous construction of deep sea fishing vessels. Under the terms of the scheme one vessel is required to be constructed indigenously for each vessel imported. Under the earlier scheme, one vessel as required to be constructed indigenously for every two vessels imported. In order to avoid continued dependence on import, it is considered necessary to ensure full utilisation of indigenous capacity and to develop expertise for fishing vessel construction within the country. The scheme of import of 50 vessels provides for the subsidising of the vessels required to be constructed indigenously. There has been a good response to the scheme under the terms and conditions notified, from public sector undertakings as well as from small and large firms in the private sector. No modification of the terms and condition is therefore, considered necessary. The feasibility of bringing fishing vessels within the purview of the Shipping Development Fund is being examined.
