New sports policy

†1856. SHRI NARESH CHANDRA AGRAWAL: Will the Minister of YOUTH AFFAIRS AND SPORTS be pleased to state:

- category-wise details of medals won by Indian players in last five Olympics;
- whether it is a fact that in view of Indian downfall in world level sports, Government is contemplating to introduce a new sports policy to encourage players and make them world-level sports person;
- if so, by when this policy is going to be introduced; and
- if not, the reasons therefor?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF YOUTH AFFAIRS AND SPORTS (SHRI PRATIK PRAKASHBAPU PATIL): (a) India has won 1 Gold, 1 Silver and 4 Bronze medals in last five Olympics, details of which are given in table below:

5.	Beijing Olympics 2008	1 (Shooting)	-	2 (Boxing and Wrestling)

(b) to (d) There is no proposal to replace the existing National Sports Policy of 2001. However, Government has taken a series of initiatives within the existing policy frame work to promote mass participation and excellence in sports. These include guidelines for good governance of National Sports Federations; introduction of a national sports programme called 'Panchayat Yuva Krida Aur Khel Abhiyan' (PYKKA), which aims at providing all village, block and district panchayats and their equivalent with basic sports infrastructure in a phased manner. Emphasis has also been laid on the integration of sports and physical education in school curriculum through the Right to Education Act, which recognized the role of sports in school education.

With regard to the promotion of sporting excellence, liberal assistance is being extended for the training and preparation of elite athletes. Further, the amount of pension and cash awards for meritorious performance has also been enhanced significantly. The performance of the Indian athletes at the recently concluded Commonwealth Games 2010, where they finished at the 2nd position in the medal tally, behind Australia, shows a promising beginning of upsurge in the sporting performance of Indian athletes.

Preparation for London Olympics-2012
