

(ii) Maximum possible cooperation of the public should be procured for Child Welfare Programmes and suitable literature on Child Welfare should be made available to the public at low price so that they may become adequately conversant with the subject.

(Hi) Children in Social Welfare institutions belonging to other States should be transferred to institutions in their own States. A Central Bureau should be set up for undertaking transfer of children at inter-state level.

(iv) The Pay Scales of Social Workers should be raised so that they may take interest in their work. The services of technical staff should also be utilised by inter-state exchange of personnel.

(b) The Seminar was organised by the Directorate of Social Welfare, Delhi Administration. Recommendations were not received earlier by the Central Government. As such the question of follow up action by the Government does not arise.

The examination of these recommendations which have now been received, indicate agreement in principle on the adjustment of the welfare services for children according to their changing needs and on the increasing involvement of community for providing services of Child Welfare. With regard to the question of transfer of children from one State to another there already exists the necessary provision in most of the Acts adopted by the States. The subject of Social Defence being in the State Sector places the responsibility on the State Governments. The suggestion for setting up of the Central Bureau for undertaking transfer of children from one State to another requires further examination. The recommendations for raising pay scale of social workers dealing with Child Welfare requires to be examined by the State Governments.
