†[THE MINISTER OF LAW AND JUSTICE विधि और न्याय मंत्री (SHRI H. R. GOKHALE) : (a) to (c) The counting procedure was changed by making suitable amendments to the Conduct of Elections Rules, 1961, on the basis of the recommendations received from the Election Commission. The procedure thus adopted for amendment of the rules does not constitute any departure from the practice hitherto adopted, nor does the law governing the conduct of elections provide for any prior consultation with the political parties before amendments to rules could be under-

I taken. The Election Commission considered that the change in the counting procedure was absolutely necessary for enabling voters belonging to the weaker sections to exercise their votes freely and fearlessly without fear of being threatened or intimidated for the way in which they might have cast their votes. The Commission was convinced of the intrinsic merit of the new procedure which has stood the test in the United Kingdom over a period of time. A letter dated the 20th January, 1971, jointly signed by the following persons belonging to the political parties indicated against their names was received in the Election Commission expressing opposition to the introduction of last minute changes in the rules :

1. Shri Pitambar Dass—Jan Sangh.

Shri Raj Narain—Samyukta Socialist Party.

Shri S. D. Mishra—Congress then led by Shri Nijalingappa.

4. Shri R. C. Cooper—Swatantra.

No communication opposing the new procedure was received from any other political party.
