

is a curved panel containing the words RESERVE BANK OF INDIA in bold, shaded, white letters. Underneath comes the usual promise to pay against wavy line tints the words ONE HUNDRED RUPEES, which are contained in a special panel of geometrical work also being in bold shaded, white letters. Immediately below the watermark panel and the corresponding panel on the right, parallel white lines run right across the note, the space between the lines being occupied by the signature of the Governor of the Reserve Bank of India in the centre with the prefix and serial number of the note printed in black on either side. The border of the note consists of an interlaced double line with fine geometrical work inside. The whole design is superimposed upon wavy line tint work of oval shape which extends to all the four edges of the note. The main design of the note is printed in blue with rainbow tints of mauve, olive-green, blue, blue-grey, blue-green, orange and green. Previous designs of this denomination have had the circle of issue printed on them but this is omitted from the new design, the necessary identification being done by reference to the prefixes of which separate allotments will be made to each Currency office.

Back.—On the right is the blank watermark panel with an irregular border of continuous beading. On the left a similar panel contains the Reserve Bank seal superimposed on guilloché. Above each of these panels is a small head-panel, with floral work on either side, containing the value in figures of floral design. Between these two head panels appear the words RESERVE BANK OF INDIA in bold white letters on a slight curve. Occupying the centre of the note is a forest scene depicting two elephants, the words ONE HUNDRED RUPEES appearing immediately underneath in bold, shaded, white letters. The value in the various scripts appears at the bottom of the note as follows : bottom left corner, Oriya, Telugu, and Bengali; Centre, Hindi and Urdu; bottom right corner, Tamil, Kanarese; and Gujarati. All these appear in white characters against a background of geometrical work. The whole design is enclosed within a border of interlaced double lines with geometrical work inside. The main design is printed in blue with rainbow tints of blue-gray, olive-green, brown and blue-green.
