

been formed, is one entirely under the State Government and the Central Government has nothing to do with it.

SHRIMATI DEVAKI GOPIDAS : May I know, Sir, whether it is not the accepted principle of the Government that fishermen's co-operative societies are to be formed, as envisaged in the First Plan. It has been carried forward in the Second Plan that fishermen's co-operatives are to be formed and that all the improvements in this sphere have to be continued through the fishermen's co-operative societies. The Government has invested so much amount as grants and loans to these fishermen's co-operatives. May I know what is the reaction of the Government to such co-operative societies being formed and whether the Government have received any complaints

MR. CHAIRMAN : I am afraid the Question Hour is over.
