

ness' without Government setting up a machinery to deal with political corruption; and

(b) if so, what is the reaction of Government thereto?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS (SHRI JAISUKHLAL HATHI) : (a) and (b) A statement is laid on the Table of the House.

STATEMENT

(a) Yes, Sir.

(b) Government's approach regarding procedure for dealing with allegations of corruption at political level was explained by the Home Minister in the course of his reply during the discussion of the Demands for Grants of Ministry of Home Affairs on the 27th April, 1965. The following are extracts from what the Home Minister stated in the Lok Sabha on 27th April, 1965 :—

"I may inform the House that the mind of the Prime Minister has been exercised over this matter and I can give an indication now on his behalf. He is thinking—I may say, he has already decided—that there should be some other approach adopted to a problem of this kind. May be, there may be numerous cases of wild, fantastic and baseless allegations and it is not at all necessary to send them up for any kind of inquiry. The Prime Minister will look at it and, on whatever personal inquiry he has to make, he will dispose of it. Then it is his responsibility. But if any inquiry is to be made at all, then it should not be this poor man and any of his colleagues, but it should be by an independent, impartial agency."

Code of Conduct for Ministers has also been evolved to keep a check on corruption at political level.
