

torate they would select for the purposes of elections to the local bodies.

SHRI M. P. BHARGAVA: May I know, Madam, from the hon. Minister whether actually rolls are prepared by one authority or whether there are different authorities for preparing different electoral rolls, the Election Commission for the Parliamentary constituencies and the State Governments for the State Assemblies and the District Boards for the Panchayats and local bodies? What is the position?

SHRI JAGANATH RAO: In every State the Chief Electoral Officer prepares the rolls on behalf of the Election Commission.

SHRI A. B. VAJPAYEE: In view of the fact that large-scale malpractices occur in preparing the electoral rolls for Panchayats may I know whether the Government have considered the desirability of advising the State Governments to have a common electoral roll for the Assemblies as well as for the Panchayats?

SHRI A. K. SEN: I do not think it is the business of the Central Government to advise the State Governments as to how to run their Panchayat elections. If the Panchayat elections have revealed any large-scale malpractices in the matter of the preparation of electoral rolls, I have no doubt the matter will be taken up by the respective State Government to prevent such malpractices from occurring. As far I know, separate laws are provided for preparation of electoral rolls, for the filing of petitions, for hearing of objections and various other matters, similar to the procedure we follow in preparing our rolls.

SHRI A. D. MANI: Madam, the hon. Deputy Minister has said that the Chief Electoral Officer has been vested with the responsibility for the preparation of the State Legislative Assembly rolls and the rolls for Parliament. May I ask him whether the Chief Electoral Officer does not employ the staff of the State Governments, or is any staff of the Election Commission associated with him in regard to the preparation of these electoral rolls?

I here have been some cases in the electoral rolls where the names of Ministers of the State Governments and of important members of the Legislative Assembly have been omitted, and therefore I put this question.

SHRI JAGANATH RAO: No officer of the Chief Election Commission is associated with the preparation of the electoral rolls. Naturally the State Electoral Officer employs the State officers. Mistakes do occur and when they occur and they are pointed out, they are corrected.
