Punjab

1. Christian Medical College, Ludhiana.
2. Dayanand Medical College, Ludhiana.

West Bengal

1. Calcutta National Medical Institute, Calcutta.

The Medical Council of India has inspected several of these colleges. With the exception of Christian Medical College, Vellore, Ludhiana and Bangalore, most of the other private medical colleges are reported to have inadequate facilities in regard to clinical beds and staff. The Christian Medical College at Ludhiana and Bangalore and the Calcutta National Medical Institute are reported to have fair arrangements but not fully in keeping with the Council's requirements.

Except for private medical colleges at Vellore, Ludhiana, Punjab and St. John's Medical College, Bangalore, capitation fees for admission are charged by all the rest. The Alleppey medical college (Kerala) has also stopped charging capitation fees since July, 1965 under orders of the Kerala Government.
