

the topics of those lectures, and whether we can have a text of the speeches that he made in order to understand (i) whether the foreign exchange has been profitably spent and (ii) whether we can do away with sending cultural delegations and entirely rely on the hon. Minister for cultural contacts with the rest of the world?

SHRI HUMAYUN KABIR: I am sure if my hon. friend takes care to read my books when they are published, he will learn something more about Indian culture than he knows.

SHRI BHUPESH GUPTA: He says that I should read his books. Which books publish his speeches and how many speeches he has made, may I know? May I also know how many books I have to buy and whether the hon. Minister will bear some of the cost of these books?

(No reply.)

SHRI A. D. MANI: Would the Minister be able to say how long he was out of India on account of this tour?

SHRI HUMAYUN KABIR: I think it was just about five weeks.
