(b) Yes, Sir.

(c) The integration of the regional offices of the Textile Commissioner and the Handloom Board is intended to ensure a better appreciation of and attention to the problems of the industry, both in the mill-sector and handloom sector, by an adequately staffed regional directorate headed by a Director. The re-organisation is also intended to foster the development of both the sectors on mutually-complementary lines.

I may add that the Madras Office is not likely to be amalgamated soon.
