

SHRI M. V. KRISHNAPPA: Yes, Sir. Last year there was a certain portion of the amount which could not be spent as we were unable to get the required staff. They refused to come and work in the desert. We had called for applications as a number of experts were required, and even they did not come along. We selected some and offered the posts to them but they turned down the offers and we had to go without spending that amount. This year we are spending all that.

SHRI H. C. MATHUR: Are you aware that when applications were invited by other departments there were thousands of applications? What are the reasons?

SHRI M. V. KRISHNAPPA: Nobody likes to work in a desert. If there are jobs in the cities they go but if we announce a job in the desert nobody will accept it. It is very much difficult and we would be glad to get someone.

SHRI H. C. MATHUR: Was any aerial sowing done and are you aware that this was done against the definite advice of the Research Institute and that the result has been extremely bad?

SHRI M. V. KRISHNAPPA: I do not know. It is too early to say about the results of the experiments.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The question hour is over. Mr. Mathur, you may be a little more pleasant.
