SHRI M. VALIULLA: Is it not a fact that the telephone rentals were very much cheaper in Mysore State before the integration?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: It is a fact that the rentals were lower than those obtaining in other parts of the country.

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: Yes, to bring about uniform rates throughout the country.

SHRI M. VALIULLA: Is it necessary that the same rates should prevail in all places, whether big or small?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: It is a necessary corollary of financial integration that there should be uniform tariffs throughout the country.

SHRI M. VALIULLA: Did the Journalists' Association, Mysore, make a representation to the Minister for Communications to lower the rates?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: Yes, Sir. Their representation was that Bangalore should not be treated in the same way as the big commercial centres like Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, but H.M. replied that he had also to consider towns like taluk headquarters which were far smaller than Bangalore where also the same rentals are being recovered in order to ensure uniformity.

SHRI M. VALIULLA: After that, have you thought over the matter?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: I have already replied.

SHRI B. K. MUKERJEE: Is it a fact that the Government recently separated the administration of the telephone and telegraph sections and thereby increased the administrative cost of the telephones?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: Neither does it arise from the question, nor is it a fact.

SHRI B. K. MUKERJEE: Does the Government consider that the telephone is an essential system of communication to the community?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: Obviously, it is very essential.

SHRI B. K. MUKERJEE: Can the Government say that under the present telephone tariff telephone facilities are available to the common man in this country?

SHRI RAJ BAHADUR: The rates are not high.
