STATEMENT

Recommendations of the Seminar on the 'Contribution of Gandhian Outlook and Techniques to the Solution of Tensions between and within Nations'.

The main recommendations of the Seminar are as follows: —

The participants were agreed that only by the application of Gandhian principles, world peace can be preserved and national and international tensions can be resolved. The fear and hatred that now poison the relations between nations can be effectively counteracted by the Gandhian outlook and techniques. TSJ« Sesn&ar expressed its faith in the United Nations and hoped that consistent with the Gandhian principles, it should be both universal in its membership and work on the basis of non-violence in international disputes. It also recommended that all technical and other assistance for the under-developed areas should be canalized through the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies so as to avoid exploitation or domination of one nation by another. The Seminar was opposed to the division of the world into two rival blocs and was generally of the opinion that a front of peace-loving nations should be built so as to provide a moral equivalent to war and prevail upon the rival blocs to arrest the drift towards a world catastrophe. The Seminar stressed the need for reorientating educational systems on Gandhian lines with a view to eradicating various national and racial prejudices.

The Seminar recommended that the Ministry or Unesco should publish a small brochure embodying the major recommendations and conclusions of the Seminar, which should be prepared by Professor Humayun Kabir. The Seminar also recommended that a volume entitled 'Gandhi and Peace' should be published containing statements by the participants.
