

THE DEPUTY MINISTER IN THE MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE AND IRRIGATION (SHRI KEDAR NATH SINGH) : (a) to (c) A statement is laid on the Table of the House.

Statement

(a) For execution of river valley projects, lands, properties, etc., are required to be acquired for construction of works such as dams, canals, roads etc. construction camps and colonies and for areas to be submerged by reservoirs formed as a result of construction of dams and diversion structures. Since the construction period of the projects extend over a number of years, the proceedings, of acquisition of the lands, etc., are taken up in a phased manner according to the needs and not in one lot. Whereas compensation for lands, properties, crops, etc., is paid for such acquisition, in the case of reservoirs where large contiguous areas are acquired, rehabilitation measures are also taken. Generally speaking, no rehabilitation measures are taken for works like canals, roads, etc. Acquisition and rehabilitation are a continuing process and extend almost throughout the construction period of a project.

Irrigation is a State subject and irrigation projects are planned, financed and implemented by State Governments. At present 283 major and medium irrigation projects and a large number of hydel projects are under various stages of construction. Acquisition of land, determination and payment of compensation and taking suitable rehabilitation measures for the affected persons are the responsibilities of the State Governments. The number of villages affected and the number of residents to be rehabilitated is a matter of continuous appraisal for each project and such detailed information is not possible to be collected till a project is in a sufficiently advanced stage of construction.

(b) and (c) A High Powered Committee with the Union Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Irrigation as Chairman and Ministers for Irrigation in the States of Bihar, Gujarat, Maharashtra and Rajasthan and Ministers for Revenue in the States of Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh as Members, has been constituted in September, 1975 for going into the norms for land acquisition and rehabilitation measures for people displaced by major water resources projects and making suitable recommendations. The Committee is at present compiling the data and examining various issues for certain selected projects.
