

Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare advises farmers to adopt techniques, such as, in-situ moisture conservation, on farm water harvesting through farm ponds, etc., ridge furrow, board bed furrow, promoting agronomic practices, including direct seeded rice through seed drills/drum seeder, use of short duration and stress tolerant varieties of paddy like Sahbhagi Dhan/Swarna Sub-I, Intercropping and mixed cropping with pulses/oilseeds/coarse cereals, spray of drought mitigating chemicals like bio-urea, KCL, KNO<sub>3</sub>, hydrogel and mulching etc. However, agriculture being State subject, the primary responsibility of imparting training to the farmers and making them aware of various techniques to overcome damage to crops, rests with State Governments.
